YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES.

Topic: "Abiding in Christ" (John xv, 1-10).

The various young people's societies have as their topic to-morrow evening, "Abiding in Christ," founded on John xv. 1-10, which is a part of Christ's last conversation with his discples before his crucifixion. They are among his parting words, and as such come to us to-day with a peculiar tender-ness and power.

Dess and power.

The title given the lesson is somewhat abbreviated, and if written in full would be, "Abiding in Christ in Order to Fruitfulness in the Christian Life." This thought Christ illustrates under the figure of the vine and its branches, under the tender care of the husbandman. In the opening werse the Master announces that he is the vine and that his Father is the husbandman, a figure familiar to the Israelites. See Isaiah v, 1-7. salah v, 1-7.

The second verse announces the general man, a figure familiar to the Israelites. See leaish v. 1-7.

The second verse announces the general law of the vineyard: "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit he purgeth it that it may bring forth much fruit." This also is the law of the natural vineyard. Every vine and every branch is expected to bring forth fruit, and when this is not the case it must be cut off so as not to sap the vitality from the fruit-bearing branches. So it is to be in the spiritual vineyard of Christ. The normal condition of the branch which sustains a vital relation to the vine is fruitfulness, and the unfruitful branch is subject to removal by the Lord of the vine-yard. Just how this is done does not appear, nor is it wise to conjecture. Certain it is that the law will be enforced and in God's own time and way.

The prominent feature in the lesson, however, is the question of "ablding" in Christ, the vine, in order to fruitfulness. By this is not meant a mere formal or ecclesiastical relation, but a vital, living one. This relation is secured by saving faith in Christ as a personal Savier, and is sustained and developed by a deep communion and fellowship with him, who is the life and the light of men. This is ordinarily accomplished by a faithful use of the word and attendance upon the public ordinances of God's house. It should also be remembered that one of the best ways in which to quicken the spiritual life is to minister to the spiritual needs of others. One of the best ways in which to lift ourselves to a higher spiritual plane is to try to lift some one else, which is the practical fruit so prominently mentioned in the lesson. "Herein." says Christ, "is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciplea."

The closing thought of the lesson is that of obedience and love: "As the Father hath loved me, even so have I loved you; continue ye in my love. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall ablde in my love: even as I have kept my Father's commandments and abide in his love." Here, then, is the accret of abiding in Christ, in order to fruitfulness. Obedience to his will in all things is essential to fruit-bearing, and disobedience is equally faial to this end. When Saul, King of israel, disobeyed God in reference to the destruction of the Amerikites, the prophet Samuel declared that to "obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams." Disloyalty to Christ is sure to produce barrenness in the spiritual life, and bring sorrow and remorse.

Selected topic thoughts: "Apart from Christ, apart from power, joy, peace and completeness," "We cannot abide in Christ and in worlddiness at the same time." The written word in the heart draws the heart to the incarnate word." "The fruit of the branches is for the glory of the vine."

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON. Feeding the Five Thousand-John vi, 5-14.

generous host were inadequate for the purpose. Andrew, one of the two who first followed Jesus (Chnh 1, 40), emboldened possibly by his longer discipleship, interposed the remark that, even though there was plenty of money, there was nothing that could be purchased. There was, indeed, a boy in the crowd with five barley leaves and two fishes, which evidently the apostles claimed (Luke Ix. 13). To meet their own needs, but these would be inadequate to supply such a great company. This was the second form of the argument to support the original proposition and dismiss the people that they might go and find their own rereshment in the villages round about, an argument even more forcible than the first. Like Philip, Andrew considered not the miraculous power of Jesus. He felt that it was impossible for them to do anything for the hungry multitude.

GUESTS—(Verse 16). It was at the conclusion of this conversation between the disciples and Jesus that the real purpose of the latter was disclosed. His questions were not intended to show the amount of money or the store of provisions, but to ascertain whether his followers had faith in him. He designed from the beginning to care for these who had tarried so lons to hear him. All that had transpired was an excellent preliminary, for it prepared the mirds of the twelve for that which was about to occur. QUEEN LIL'S WORDS. We Must Do Our Duty as American Citizens."

EPUBLIC SPECIAL. Victoria, British Columbia, June 15 .- "It is seless for us to abstain from taking our stand. Our future prosperity depends upon it. As soon as the United States flag was stand. Our future prosperity depends upon it. As soon as the United States flag was hoisted over these islands and our Hawalian flag was lowered by the authority of America, it meant that it had come to stay. It is my wish that for your future welfare you stand shoulder to shoulder and seek every means that will conduce to the benefit of the whole nation. When the flag went down it went down for good. We must now do our duty as American citizens."

These words were uttered by the former Queen, Lliuokalani, according to reports by the steamer Warrimoo, arriving to-day, on June 7, at Honolulu, to a body of natives who called upon her to pay their respects. The delegation was composed of members of the Kalaiains and Alopaina societies, which that day met in convention to decide upon the political course of Hawalians.

Robert Wilson, who was sent to Washington by these societies, reported that, following instructions, he made all inquiries he could as to the possibility of a restoration of Hawalian independence, and everywhere was advised that this was hopeless. Thereupon he devoted himself to securing the franchise for the Hawalians. He then advised his hearers to act independently of the Republican and Democratic parties. This was agreed to, and an independent Hawalian party was thus formed.

Make Flesh and Blood

J. H. FLETCHER ormerly Governo of South Dakota, but now a resident of Salem Ore., says: "For over two years my daughter had been declining from a strong, healthy, rosy-cheeked girl to a pale, weak and helpless invalid. She was afflicted with terrible headaches, and gradually grew weaker and more languid, apparently without cause. I tried several doctors, but all without avail. One day to please a friend, I bought a box of Dr.Williams Pink Pills for PalePeople and to our surprise, before it was used up her headaches ceased, the color began to return to her cheeks and lips and her strength began to assert itself. I bought five boxes more, and by the time she had finished them she was completely restored, and to-day she is a robust, rosy, healthy girl, instead of a pale, tired and sickly one.

VERDICT FOR MRS. DODGE.

She Was Accused of Smuggling In $64,000 Worth of Jewelry.

New York, June 15.-The suit of the Government for the forfeiture of the 994,000 worth of jewelry seized from Mrs. Phyllis ernment for the forfeiture of the $84,000 worth of jewelry seized from Mrs. Phyllis E. Dodge by customs officials, when she landed here from the steamship St. Paul a year ago, was concluded this morning in the United States District Court, with a verdiet for Mrs. Bodge.

Before the case was given to the jury, Assistant District Attorney Baldwin asked for a verdiet for the Government on three counts in the information, waving the one alleging fraudulent intent. The motion was denied by Judge Brown, as was also one by Mr. Smith for the directing of a verdiet for Mrs. Dodge.

Judge Brown then began his charge to the jury. The Judge declared that, if the bringing in of the jewelry was a trick to introduce it into the country for sale, they, the smugglers, would not have taken the course that was taken in this case. He said there had been testimony to show that one of Mrs. Dodge's weaknesses was fondness for jewelry, and concluded that the whole case rested on whether the jewelry was brought in under false pretense, or whether Mrs. Dodge's story was substantiated. After being out thirty minutes, the jury returned a verdiet in favor of Mrs. Dodge. A stay of sixty days was granted, however, in which time the Government will prepare an appeal from the decision.

The $84,000 in gems will, therefore, remain in the possession of Uncle Sam until the question of their dutiability has been settled by a higher court.
